Table of Contents

Configuration Process

In the previous sections we have frequently mentioned configuration of different elements of an application such as business objects, business rules, processes etc. The following section provides an overview of the configuration process while the details are provided in the Working with Configuration Tool section.

See also: